

Choreographic notes: Answers from questions I have asked. Collected from Jessica Arthur, Chloe Sobejko, Yilin Kong, Amber McCartney.

Jessica Arthur:

Objects which encapsulate Leisure Mountain:

Dirty dishes
Wet grass
Comfy shoes
Picturesque views
Cute Japanese lunch boxes shaped like the food they hold
Chipped nail polish
Chipped paint jobs
Chipped teeth
Genuine smiles
Books that contain all languages
Small trees
Coats
Floppy floppy discs
Citrus
Missing beanies
Unicorn emoji
Whipped cream
Sparkles
Swede boots
Velour track suits
Fresh flowers
Fucking big rocks
Fluffy pencils
Fur coats
Listerine
Plastic umbrellas

Amber McCartney

1. What is Leisure Mountain?

Each human resides within their individual Leisure Mountain.
A low opaque, miniature highland fills and is limited by its host's kinesphere.
Its geographical characteristics shifting and defined by the time in which you travel.
Time outside the glittering boundaries is undefined, each vessel lives within their chosen moment.
I can see when you are but I cannot change when you are.

2. What objects encapsulate Leisure Mountain?

Leisure Mountain is a small handbook full of holes.
Leisure Mountain is a soft sheet of circular transplant paper, larger than the room you are in.
Leisure Mountain is thousands a pieces of perspex, cut into blades of grass.
Leisure Mountain is a cluster of roots soaking up water.